

Under Eye Treatment

Overview

The number of under-eye problems is nearly limitless: dark circles, discoloration, puffiness, under-eye bags, and fine lines. The worst part is that even after getting enough sleep, using eye cream frequently, and applying many cucumber slices, those prolonged under-eye problems remain.

Puffy eyes are caused by temporary swelling, which is more often exacerbated by seasonal allergies. It can also occur if you are severely dehydrated, which causes water retention and facial swelling. Sleep deprivation exacerbates puffy eyes by causing fluid to pool in the region.

Dark circles are a widespread aesthetic problem defined as dark discoloration of the eye area. Dark circles and under-eye bags can affect males and females at any point in life. Dark circles can impact a person's emotional health and quality of life because they cause their face to appear worn out, depressed, or older than it truly is.

Tiredness is the most common cause of dark circles under the eyes. What appear to be dark circles under the eyes may simply be shadows cast by swollen eyes or hollows under the eyes caused by ageing.

Effective options for dark-circles treatment

Depending on the type of dark circles, our specialists may advise some or all of the following best dark circle treatment choices:

Laser treatment

Laser treatment is the best dark circles under eyes treatment. Non-ablative and ablative lasers are used for dark circles treatment by managing circulation issues and excess melanin. Lasers work beneath the skin's surface, stimulating collagen synthesis and making the skin smooth, tight, and rejuvenated. Dark circles treatment by laser is an effective way of treating dark circles produced by pigmentation problems.

Mesotherapy

Mesotherapy can optimise the colour of dark circles under the eyes and the volume of fatty bags. It is a painless procedure that entails electroporation or small microinjections. The outcomes are usually visible after two procedures.

PRP (platelet-rich plasma) therapy

This method of dark circles under eyes treatment in Dr. XYZ's clinic rejuvenates the skin using stem cells. Micro-needling combined with PRP affects collagen, resulting in a glow and natural plumpness of the skin. It also provides an influx of anti-aging serum for a positive experience.

Dermal fillers

HA fillers are used intravenously to stimulate skin hydration and collagen production. This dark circles treatment in the XYZ clinic is highly beneficial for individuals who have sunken eyes due to volume loss, lending a hollowed-out impression under the eyes. It produces long-lasting results; the effects of a single treatment session last for 12 to 14 months.

Chemical peels

Chemical peels are also an effective puffy eyes treatment. It is a resurfacing treatment that stimulates the formation of a fresh, new skin layer with more even colour, which helps to reduce age spots, wrinkles, and dark patches around the eyes. Both medium-depth and superficial chemical peels target pigment in the sensitive eye region. They are believed to be healthy with successful effectiveness.

Medi-Hydrfacial

The best dark circles treatment in XYZ clinic serves noninvasively by providing anti-oxidants into the epidermis to freshen and moisturise the sensitive eye regions and profoundly lighten your ultimate complexion. Since dull skin often aggravates dark circles, this process instantly brightens and revitalises your skin with no downtime.

Radiofrequency treatment

Combining radiofrequency and micro-needling treatments activates collagen synthesis and aids in firming and plumping the skin. The gentle, warm air from RF is directed at the eye area, causing it to lift and contract. The thin layer of skin under the eyes fills out, making dark circles less visible.

Blepharoplasty

The dark circles treatment at XYZ Clinic is a surgical procedure that raises the eyelids, making the dark circle less visible by eliminating extra skin or fat from the eye region. It aids in the puffy eyes treatment and correction of drooping upper eyelids, as well as the reduction of the presence of dark circles.
